Design Pine debuts in Indianapolis

Mike Clark has recently completed a Design Pine exterior renovation of his home in Indianapolis.

Located in the historic Meridian-Kessler area, Design Pine had to comply with the historic preservation requirements of the district, and pass a comprehensive product evaluation assessment for local approval.

“Being an all wood product with an organic treatment made Design Pine an excellent choice” commented Mike. “The House was originally built in 1935, and we wanted to keep the tradition of wood siding and trim.

We considered a range of building materials including vinyl and composite products.

We were looking for a product guaranteed to stand the test of time and to be compliant with the local historic preservation requirements. Design Pine is engineered, organically treated and guaranteed, has an excellent pre-primed coating and is safe to work and live with. Its environmental profile is impressive and in view of its reputation in Australia, we thought it was a wise choice”

Design Pine is produced by ITI in Chile and is distributed throughout the United States. For product details and distributor locations visit www.itiamericas.com. ❖
